mini-Scooter

Glynis Nott is a Melbourne-based artist who just loves to make little 3-dimensional portraits of pets. The technique uses wool fibre and a special tool and the process is called needle felting. These tiny little wool sculptures can fit into the palm of your hand and she works from photos supplied to get expressions and markings just right.

The process of needle felting uses unspun wool fibre and a felting needle which binds the fibres. To add colour and contrast to the miniature, dyed wool fibre is used where needed and little glass eyes are added. The miniatures take many hours to complete and we just love the expression that Glynis captures in her subjects.

We decided to put Glynis to the test and make a miniature of Urban Animal's Scooter. The result was a perfect little mini-me, minus the collection of chewed shoes. These gorgeous little creations make great gifts or sweet keepsakes of your treasured pets.
